Enter through a practical small porch, the ideal space to remove muddy boots after a day exploring the breath-taking Shropshire Hills Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty. From here, a door leads into the inviting lounge, a room brimming with character. The lounge features original wooden floorboards, exposed ceiling beams, and a cosy wood-burning stove with a traditional stone surround. UPVC wood-effect double glazing throughout the property ensures warmth and efficiency, while a window to the front provides a pleasant outlook.

To the right of the lounge, you'll find the dining room, another space that pays homage to the home's rich history. This room boasts beautiful quarry tiled flooring, more exposed ceiling beams, and an open fire, perfect for intimate gatherings. Built-in storage cupboards on either side of the chimney breast offer practical and discreet storage.

From the dining room, steps lead down to a modern and well-appointed downstairs bathroom. This space features a panelled bath with a shower over (including both a rainfall and handheld shower head), a WC, a wide vanity basin with storage, and an electric heated towel rail. There is also space and plumbing for a washing machine, making it a highly functional room.

The kitchen, located straight ahead from the lounge, is equipped with floor and wall units, an integrated oven and hob with an extractor, and a ceramic sink with a drainer. Tiled flooring ensures easy maintenance, and a door provides convenient access to the rear garden.

A staircase leads from the ground floor to the upstairs, where you will find three well-proportioned bedrooms. Each room offers a peaceful retreat at the end of the day.

Outside, the property benefits from a small, easy-to-maintain rear garden, offering a private space for relaxation or al fresco dining. A gate to the side provides direct access to the Shropshire Way, perfect for walkers and nature lovers. A key feature of this historic property is the cellar, which can be accessed externally from the side of the house.

While the property is perfectly liveable, a new owner could undertake a program of upgrading to unlock its full potential, creating a truly unique and stunning home.
